[APRIL, MDCCLXXIII.] [NUMB. 386.]

THE SOUTH-CAROLINA AND COUNTRY GAZETTE; JOURNAL.

Containing the freſheſt Advices, both Foreign and Domeſtic.

TUESDAY, APRIL 20, 1773.

LONDON, JANUARY 23.

YESTERDAY a full Board of Trade was held, at which the Earl of Dartmouth preſided, when ſome accounts were ordered to be prepared, which are to be laid before a Great Aſſembly.

Letters from Paris mention, that thirteen perſons were a few days ago brought there in order for trial, charged with having promoted diſſentions, and endeavouring to occaſion inſurrections at Cape-Francois and St. Domingo.

They write from Mittau, that the Duke Erneſt-John, Duke of Courland, died there the 28th of laſt month, aged eighty-three years.

Different accounts from Spain inform, that there never was known greater expedition made in the ſeveral ſea-ports of that kingdom, in building and fitting out ſhips of war, than at preſent. Their marine is more numerous and in better order than it has been for theſe ſixty years laſt paſt; what all theſe preparations are for, our Miniſtry, no doubt, well know, which muſt be the reaſon of our fitting out a fleet of ſixteen ſail of the line to be commanded by Admiral Pye this ſpring, and intended for the Mediterranean, inſtead of the Eaſt-Indies, which has been given out.

The Miniſtry have come to a reſolution to have ſome neceſſary repairs made in the harbour of Penſacola, in Weſt-Florida, which is conſidered as a ſafe and convenient rendezvous for ſhipping, and capable of being productive of great advantage in any future period, when we may be diſagreeably involved in a war.

It is ſaid the Premier, a few days ago, expreſſed an ardent deſire to put a ſtop to the ſcandalous practice of gambling in the Alley; I know but one way, cries Lord Sandwich, which I had from Harry Fielding on a ſimilar occaſion, and that is, to hang up all the brokers.

The meaſures are actually taking for calling the Nabobs to a ſtrict and dreadful account for their tyrannies and peculations; ten of them, at leaſt, are already enrolled in the Chancery-liſt.

The Affairs of America will come before the Houſe of Commons next week.

The ſpirited and judicious conduct of the Hollanders on a late occaſion is truly exemplary, for it is certain that national and private credit, in ſome inſtances, are only different names for the ſame thing, and cannot be wounded ſeparately.

It is generally believed, that however peaceable the preſent demeanor of the French and Spaniards may ſeem to be, they mean to have a tight bout with us, as ſoon as the one has planned, and the other is in a condition to execute the deſired meaſures.

His Majeſty's ſhip Portland, of 50 guns, at Sheerneſs, is put into commiſſion, and Captain Burkly appointed to the command of her.

Captain Graves is appointed to the command of the Raiſonnable, of 64 guns, at Plymouth, in the room of the Honourable Captain St. John.

JANUARY 25. Letters from Amſterdam, dated January 18, ſay "The arrangements made by the venerable council of this city, for the ſupport of commerce, have taken place. Laſt Friday an office was opened in the Chamber of the Regents of the Houſe of the Orphan Burghers, to lend money at a moderate intereſt on ſuch goods as are not periſhable; on bonds of the Generality and of the Country, and on actions and receipts of the Eaſt-India Company."

Another letter from Amſterdam ſays, "Our Magiſtrates have juſt now given a proof of their wiſe foreſight, in allowing proviſionally the ſum of two millions of guilders (about 180,000l.) taken out of the city treaſury, to be advanced on goods, or good bills, to ſuch perſons as might be in immediate want of money, at a moderate intereſt, which will be applied to the uſe of the poor of all religions. The adminiſtration and direction of this uſeful plan is entruſted to the management of ſix Commiſſioners; and the principal merchants have agreed to indemnify the city for any loſs that may accrue."

JANUARY 26. They write from Madrid, that the Court of Admiralty there have made a demand on the maritime provinces of 12,000 regiſtered ſeamen, in order to man the ſquadrons now fitting out in the Spaniſh ports.

Advices are lately received from the Eaſt-Indies, that the French ſquadron in that quarter conſiſts of eleven ſail of the line, ſix of them lately arrived from Europe, five frigates and three ſloops; the latter of which are employed as cruizers and advice-boats.

In the hiſtory of human kind, we can ſcarcely find a parallel to the late Erneſtus-John Duke of Courland, who died the 28th of laſt month, in the eighty-third year of his age, at his palace in Mittau. It was impoſſible that any perſon could have experienced greater changes of fortune than he did: From being the ſon of a ſtableman, or at beſt but a groom of the horſe to Prince Alexander of Courland, he roſe to be the Sovereign of that country, and in the end attained to the actual government of the vaſt empire of Ruſſia during the whole reign of the Empreſs Anne, and for ſome months after her deceaſe, which he ruled with the moſt uncontrouled deſpotiſm. This man was once more reduced to his original obſcurity, to truſt to his daily labour for ſupport, in the inhoſpitable and frozen regions of Siberia. Yet, when he had paſſed his 74th year, he was reinſtated in his Dukedom, and died a Sovereign Prince. What muſt make the hiſtory of this man's life appear ſtill more extraordinary is, that he was but a perſon of very moderate talents, untinctured with learning, deſtitute of wit, brutal, avaricious, haughty, implacable and cruel. Aſtein, the Imperial Miniſter at the Court of Peterſburgh, who deſpiſed and deteſted him, uſed to ſay, "When Biron," that being the Duke's name, "ſpeaks of horſes, he ſpeaks like a man, but when of men or to them, he ſpeaks as a horſe would do." He was however indebted to nature for ſome advantages that will always be a powerful recommendation to a certain ſet of female politicians who have power. He had a fine perſon, rode gracefully, and was of an athletic make. In fine, a robuſt conſtitution, animal vigour, and a comely appearance, have wrought as ſurpriſing changes at the Court of Peterſburgh, as ever a beautiful face, and an affectation of wit, have at that of Verſailles.

Letters from Vienna ſay, that Mr. Meroni, a man of letters in that city, has received a letter from a correſpondent in Conſtantinople, informing him of the diſcovery of a compleat manuſcript of Livy's Roman Hiſtory. Lewis XIV. offered an hundred thouſand crowns to the Porte for permiſſion to ſearch for this hiſtory in the library of the Seraglio, which contains the books belonging to the Greek Emperors.

They write from Malaga, that great numbers of ſeamen are daily raiſing in different parts to man the ſhips now fitting out at the ports of Spain.

Yeſterday the Houſe of Commons agreed to the report of their reſolution of Friday, and ordered that leave be given to bring in a bill to encourage the ſubjects of foreign ſtates to lend money upon ſecurities in the Weſt-India Colonies. Lord Barrington preſented, purſuant to an addreſs to his Majeſty, ſeveral papers relative to St. Vincent, which were ordered to lie upon the table. Deferred the conſideration of all the papers relative to St. Vincent, which were to have been conſidered to-morrow, to Monday ſeven-night. Read a ſecond time and committed the bill for the better ſupport of perſons in indigent circumſtances, under certain regulations and reſtrictions.

We learn from Copenhagen, that the greateſt aſſiduity is now uſing in building and repairing the ſhips of war.

JANUARY 28. Yeſterday morning about five o'clock, the Queen was taken in labour, when the Archbiſhop of Canterbury, and the Lord Chancellor, with other Officers of State, were ſent for, but before their arrival, her Majeſty was ſafely delivered of a Prince, about 10 minutes before ſix, and both her Majeſty and the young Prince are as well as can be expected. At noon the Park and Tower guns were fired on the occaſion. The above is their Majeſties ninth child, having now ſix Princes and three Princeſſes.

Tranſlation of Part of a Letter from Berlin, December 3, 1772.

"You well know how dangerous it is here to talk, much leſs to write by the Poſt, on public affairs; but as this will be conveyed to you by our friend Mr. ——, I am confident that I run no riſk in communicating to you what very ſoon will aſtoniſh all Europe.

"Our warlike preparations are purſued with more than uſual vigour; and though we have a well diſciplined army of about 250,000 men ready to take the field, yet our King has lately taken into pay the Heſſian and Brunſwick troops; and the Emperor, with whom our King is in a ſtrict union and alliance, has likewiſe taken the Saxon and Palatine troops into pay. The ſecrets of our cabinet, you know very well, are impenetrable; yet the beſt politicians affirm, that this formidable armament cannot ſolely be meant to ſecure the poſſeſſion in Poland, but that certainly our King and the Emperor will put in force their favourite ſcheme of annihilating our ancient ſyſtem of government in Germany, and eſtabliſh out of its ruins two formidable monarchies. The impotence of the different powers, and the tyranny and oppreſſion of the German Princes bid fair for ſuch an event ſoon to take place."

Extract of a Letter from the Hague, January 19.

"According to the lateſt accounts from Buchareſt, the negociations for peace promiſe the moſt happy conſequences. It is confirmed, that the Turks have conſented to the independence of Crimea, and the free navigation of the Black Sea; and the Ruſſian Plenipotentiaries have propoſed to the Turks to extend this navigation to the Engliſh and Dutch, but no anſwer has yet been made to this propoſal.

"Letters from the Lower Elbe adviſe, that it was not owing to the King of Pruſſia alone that the congreſs at Fockzany was broke up; but that the Court of Vienna had likewiſe a hand in it, and that the Grand Signior firſt ſaw thro' their ſchemes, and diſcovered them to the Court of Peterſbourg. The report that prevailed ſome time ago that the King of Pruſſia was in treaty with the Duke of Mecklenbourg Schwerin, to exchange the Duchy of Cleves for that of Mecklenbourg, is true; and a negociation for this purpoſe is now carrying on between them, but it is conducted with great ſecrecy."

We hear that the preſent Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, a little after his entering into that office, publicly declared to ſeveral of the minority leaders in that kingdom, that an union with England was neither directly nor indirectly an object of his commiſſion. This frank declaration on a point they ſo much dreaded, has opened a proſpect of his becoming very popular.

Some letters from Liſbon import, that a large body of ſoldiers have lately been embarked there for the Portugueſe ſettlements in Africa.

We learn from Marſeilles, that a number of Gallies are now fitting out there for a ſecret expedition in the Mediterranean.

By advices from Thorn, in Poliſh Pruſſia, we learn, that great numbers of Pruſſian troops are daily arriving there.

They write from Hanover, that ſome very material alterations in the civil and military government of that electorate are now going forward.

JANUARY 30. Letters from Paris, by yeſterday's mail, mention, that on a ſtrict examination the number of thoſe who periſhed in the great fire at the Hotel Dieu, amounted only to fourteen burnt, and nineteen wounded. Great numbers of patients, at firſt thought to have been loſt, were found at different houſes, where they had taken refuge in their fright.

Extract of a Letter from Conſtantinople, December 3.

"Since accounts have been received from Buchareſt, of the Armiſtice being prolonged to the 21ſt of next March, all the preparations for an approaching campaign are ceaſed, which makes us hope that a peace will be concluded on before that time."

A call of the Upper Houſe, we are told, is to be about the middle of next month, on a motion of a noble Duke, relative to the late Royal Marriage Act.

It is reported that the Parliament will not riſe till the firſt week in May.

The affairs of America have within theſe few weeks been under conſideration in the cabinet, and it is reported that they will very ſhortly be the ſubject of particular diſcuſſion in a great Aſſembly.

Extract of a letter from Stockholm, January 8.

"A treaty, we hear, is now on the tapis between our Court and that of France, for ſome ſhips of the line, and frigates, &c. The naval force is to be employed in the Baltic, and the military are, we are informed, to be poſted on the Norwegian frontiers. Every preparation that is now going forward ſpeaks an approaching war, notwithſtanding the pacific appearances which the Court ſeem deſirous of maintaining."

Several letters from Germany ſay, that many of the Princes of that Empire are greatly alarmed at the preſent preparations of the Pruſſian Monarch.

They write from Vienna, that expreſſes from that Court to thoſe of Peterſburgh and Berlin, were never known ſo frequent. The Miniſters hold frequent councils, and they are no ſooner over than they renew their conferences with the Pruſſian and Ruſſian Ambaſſadors.

Extract of a letter from Madrid, January 1.

"We are informed that the Spaniſh Miniſtry have ſome very particular deſigns in view reſpecting their poſſeſſions in the Eaſt Indies, eſpecially Manilla; for which place many of the ſhips now fitted out at Cadiz are ſoon to ſail; a number of engineers, ſeamen, and a great body of the military, are likewiſe to embark, in order to raiſe new fortifications, &c. A ſtrong naval force is alſo to be kept there, and it is boaſted that Manilla will be in a ſhort time impregnable."

A draught from ſome of the marching regiments is ordered to be made, to reinforce the Weſt-India garriſons.

It is reported that his Excellency the Portugueſe Ambaſſador is preparing to leave this kingdom, and will ſet out for Liſbon in a few days.

Yeſterday a Board of Admiralty was held, at the breaking up of which, expreſſes were ſent to the ſeveral dock yards of Portſmouth, Plymouth, Chatham, and Sheerneſs.

It is now ſaid, that four Gentlemen to be choſen as Superviſors on behalf of Government, as well as the Company, will ſhortly ſet ſail for India.

It is ſaid a bill is ſhortly expected to be brought in for that purpoſe.

The Prince of Wales, it is ſaid, has often requeſted to ſee his uncles, and has always been reprimanded for it.

Under the beſt of Kings, how ſhall we account for the many complaints that are continually made throughout the nation? In former times there have been Miniſters that groſsly abuſed both King and people. If that ſhould be the caſe at preſent, certainly it is the duty of Parliament to redreſs ſuch abuſes.—The nation is ſick at heart; they are her proper phyſicians; from them, and them only, the balmy cure can come.

The week before laſt the Earl of Chatham received, in his retirement to Burton Pynſent, a packet from the King of Pruſſia; but whether on public or private affairs is not known. His Pruſſian Majeſty has long done the Britiſh Cincinnatus the honour of correſponding with him; and, we are told, has, on many important occaſions, condeſcended to aſk the advice of that truly Great Man.

Advices from Hamburgh ſay, the magiſtracy at Altena have received an expreſs from Hanover, and it is ſaid the Engliſh Printer will be ſet at liberty, and have proper recompence for his confinement.

Lord N—— flatters himſelf that he has cunning enough to rule the nation, by encouraging and practiſing upon its vices; but he will at laſt ſurely find, that he, like an unſkilful quack, who to preſerve the body feeds its diſtempers, and gives the dropſical larger draughts, has but haſtened the ſtate's deſtruction, and his own diſgrace.

Extract of a private letter from Rome.

"About half a year ago there arrived in this city a French Marquis, who brought with him a Mahomitan Princeſs, acquired in the ſtrangeſt manner imaginable. Going to join his regiment in Corſica he was taken by ſome Barbary Corſairs, and carried away and ſold as a ſlave to the Emperor of Morocco. One day as he was working in the Emperor's gardens a lady came to him, and after converſing for ſome time, and finding him a man of parts and rank, ſhe propoſed to elope and marry him, promiſing at the ſame time that, if he would conſent and be guided by her, ſhe would effect his deliverance and reſtore him to liberty. Struck with her beauty and generoſity, and reſolved not to be ſurpaſſed by the latter, he frankly declared that he was already married, and could not therefore fulfil her expectations. "It does not ſignify, ſays ſhe, if you have twenty wives.—You may add one more to the number. Nothing is more common in this country." "Alas! but it is not ſo in mine. The law allows but one wife." "Surely then, replied ſhe, your laws are not founded on the laws of nature, which has conſtituted the union of the ſexes the only real marriage.—Grant me but that point, and I will readily give up the reſt." The proſpect of liberty was inviting and beauty tempting. He conſented, and ſhe had the addreſs to convey him ſafe to the ſea, where a ſhip waited ready to receive them. He came to Rome, where the ſingularity of the caſe and the probability of adding one ſheep more to St. Peter's flock, operated ſo ſtrongly as to procure a diſpenſation or indulgence, to enable the Marquis to have and hold two wives. Some alledge, that the jewels and treaſures of the Princeſs had more influence than any other conſideration. But what is more extraordinary than all, if there could be any thing extraordinary in the ſang froid of a French matron, is, that ſhe received the new wife with the utmoſt complaiſance and politeſſe, and that ſhe ſtill continues to treat her with the greateſt kindneſs and attention."

From the repeated orders daily paſſing from the Admiralty to Portſmouth and Plymouth, it is conjectured ſomething very ſtriking in the naval way will appear off St. Helen's early in the ſpring.

They write from Liſbon, that the Court of Portugal hath ſent orders to ſtop the ſailing of their ſhips from South-America and the Eaſt-Indies this year.

The Court of France has given orders for fitting out ſeven men of war at Breſt, the like number at Rochford, and twelve at Toulon; and has publiſhed a manifeſto, forbidding all her regiſtered ſeamen from entering into foreign ſervices, on pain of being indicted for high treaſon.

We hear from Paris, that the Inhabitants of the Duchy of Cleves, have put themſelves under the protection of that Court, who have ordered thirty thouſand men, under the command of Field-Marſhal Chetardie and General Tennevolt, to enter their territories, to preſerve their independency againſt the deſigns of their ambitious neighbour Frederick.

Preliminary articles previous to the declarations of the Courts of France, Spain, and Sweden, in favour of Poland, have been ſigned at Warſaw, by the Senatus Conſilium, to thoſe Courts.

Advices from Stockholm ſay, that the French Ambaſſador having repreſented to that Court, that a ſquadron of Britiſh ſhips being expected in the Baltic early in the ſpring, his Moſt Chriſtian Majeſty deſigned ſending thither a powerful fleet likewiſe, to preſerve the balance of power in the north; and that on this his Swediſh Majeſty had ordered all the veſſels at Carliſcroon to be ready to ſail at a week's warning.

France leaves no method untried to be on the ſureſt footing with the Dutch. She now propoſes having an army of ſixty thouſand men in Flanders, and has taken the moſt politic ſteps to prevent any umbrage to their High Mightineſſes on that account.

FEBRUARY 1. To-morrow the bill for enabling foreigners to lend money on Weſt-India eſtates will be read a ſecond time, according to order.

Yeſterday there was a moſt crowded and brilliant Court and Drawing-room at St. James's. His Majeſty did not return to the Queen's Palace till near four o'clock.

We are credibly informed that the Portugueſe Ambaſſador's domeſtics were yeſterday paid off, and that his Excellency will depart this Kingdom in two days.

By the industry of his agents, Lord North is thoroughly acquainted with the intrigues of the dregs (as he terms them) of the patriotic party, which will give him an opportunity of exposing them in a proper place, and at a proper time, to the satisfaction of the public in general.

The Common Council is patriotic also as well as the Mayor and Sheriffs; yet no one member of that body has virtue enough to move for once all to refrain all but the Livery from assembling at Common-halls, and prevent the rabble of the metropolis from usurping the dearest privileges of the citizens.

Mr. Sheriff Lewes, in his advertisement of thanks on being chosen to his present office, among other things descanted upon the inadequacy of our crimes and punishments, and promised us to promote a revision of the penal laws; but this promise, like that to assemble the freeholders of Middlesex immediately after the holidays, seems totally forgotten; and patriots as well as courtiers, we find, can break their words whenever the performance is disagreeable to their inclination.

The patriots are now not only in possession of the city, but of the county of Middlesex, and as they told us that we might look for halcyon-days when such an event came to pass, it may not be improper to ask what they have hitherto attempted for our good, since we raised them to this plenitude of power? They abused the late Lord Mayor for refusing Common-halls, yet now call no hall themselves, nor make our situation a whit better, than if the Treasury-bench had actually nominated the Sheriffs and Chief Magistrate.

This day the Committees of Supply of Ways and Means will come on in the House of Commons.

The resolution of Friday will be reported this day in the House of Commons, relative to the granting 421,613l. for the ordinary of the navy for the year 1773, and for the pay of the artificers and officers in his Majesty's yards.

A motion is expected to be made this week, in a certain great assembly, relative to the transactions which passed between the India Directors and a certain great man in the neighbourhood of Downing-street.

This and to-morrow are the last days fixed upon by the House of Commons for receiving petitions.

The ministry have come to a resolution to sink the money due to the Crown, from a certain great Company, into a fund, which is 600,000l. Whilst the King is pleased to remit the 400,000l. which may be due to him, for one year.

We are assured from good authority, that the return of Queen Matilda to Copenhagen is at no great distance, and that this unexpected event has been the subject of two cabinet councils within the three last weeks.

Yesterday the Lady Mayoress was introduced to his Majesty at St. James's and was most graciously received.

Lord George Germaine, who has been for a considerable time past exceedingly afflicted with the stone, is now compleatly recovered.

The Prince Czartoriski, a Polish Grandee, at present in England, is one of the Noblemen who on the death of the late King Augustus was proposed as a successor to the throne; but he had fortitude enough to prefer happiness to splendour, and is now indulging the philosophical turn of his disposition in visiting foreign countries, till the happy hand of time enables him to reside in his own with a tolerable degree of tranquillity.

The above Nobleman is about 38; he is remarkably accomplished, speaks English like a native, and French much better than many professed teachers of the language. His consort is a lady of exquisite beauty, and his revenues, before the present unhappy dissentions, were estimated at 50,000l. a year.

Their High Mightinesses, the States-General have, we hear, appointed the 17th instant as a day of public thanksgiving throughout their dominions.

Letters from Copenhagen say, that Count Molke had been sent for from his estate in the country; that he had been at Court, was graciously received by the King, and would soon have a share in the administration of government.

A peasant died lately in Sweden at the age of one hundred and nine years. What is remarkable, his mother died aged one hundred and ten, and his brother a few years ago died when he was an hundred and nine.

During the course of last year, there were 18,713 christenings in Paris; 4611 marriages; 7676 foundling children, and there have been 20,374 deaths.

FEBRUARY 2. The House of Commons yesterday agreed to the report of their resolutions on Friday last on the supply, viz. that 424,554l. be granted for defraying the charge of the ordinary of the Navy, including half-pay to sea and marine officers, for 1773; that 42,455l. be granted for defraying the charge of building, rebuilding and repairs of ships for the said year. In a Committee of the whole House, to regulate the assize of bread, came to several resolutions, and a bill was ordered in accordingly. Received a petition for leave to bring in a bill to encourage the manufacture of steel in America; also, a bill for establishing a mint at Sheffield for assaying of plate, which were referred to Committees.

They write from Leghorn that all the Italian States are preparing to act on the defensive, as very warm work is expected in the Mediterranean the ensuing summer. The Genoese, in particular, are very busy, and are fitting out some capital vessels.

Letters from good hands assure us, that a corps of Russian troops are marching into Finland.

We hear, that a person of distinction from Denmark, is expected here very soon on business of an important nature.

Letters from Copenhagen give an account of a great fire in the harbour of Elsineur, which had destroyed several merchant ships and some frigates of war lying there.

An enquiry, it is said, has been made at a public office, to know what time they could victual ten thousand men in case of an exigency.

Authentic letters from the Hague mention, that two of the United Provinces have lately denied paying their quota, which has caused much speculation among the politicians.

Letters from Amsterdam mention, that the States-General have ordered the merchants of that place not to advance a loan of 150,000l. sterling, which is now negociating for the King of Prussia.

DUBLIN, January 22. The Parliament of this kingdom which stood prorogued to Tuesday the 26th instant, is, by proclamation, further prorogued to Tuesday the 2d of March.

DUBLIN-CASTLE, January 22. His Majesty has been pleased to appoint Sir Francis Bernard, John Monck Mason, Robert Waller, William Montgomery, and Richard Townshend, Esqrs. to be Commissioners of Excise.

CONSTANTINOPLE, December 17. It is reported here, that the old Chiek Daher having fallen out with Ali Bey, his friend and kinsman, first stripped him of all his treasure, and then took away his life. But this news stands in need of confirmation.

HAMBURGH, January 19. We begin to fear that the treaty concluded in 1767 between Russia and Denmark, relative to the Ducal Holstein, will not be ratified by the Grand Duke of Russia; and that we shall see revived the disputes which subsisted upwards of a century between the two branches of the House of Holstein.

The report that has been spread for some months past, that Queen Caroline Matilda of Denmark would soon return to Copenhagen, is revived and gains credit; some public papers even say, that preparations are making at Copenhagen in consequence. It is assured, that there is the most perfect harmony between England and Denmark, and that scarce a week passes but some couriers are dispatched between Hanover and Copenhagen. It is added, that his Danish Majesty has had long conferences in his cabinet with his principal Ministers; that several persons appear no more at his Court, and that the people of that kingdom ardently wish for the Queen's return, and her reconciliation with the King her husband.

VIENNA, January 12. Advices from Poland import, that our troops now occupy both sides of the Vistula.

BARUTH, October 19. The Grand Signior's troops that are intended to act against the Chick Daher and Ali Bey, are all arrived here, are going to take the field and begin their operations. The Druses have already been some time near Seyde. The army will be composed of different bodies of people, amounting in all to 18,000 men. Some people, however, are of opinion, that the Generals have only hastened to take the field, in order to appropriate to their own use the large sums the Grand Signior sent them for this expedition, which it is thought will come to nothing.

LARNECA, IN CYPRUS, November 14. The conjectures about the troops in Syria are verified. They are all dispersed except the Druses. Osman, the Pacha of Cairo, having refused to pay some of his troops, they found means to complain to the Grand Signior, who has deposed him, and ordered him to account for the sums he has received. Since this the Pacha of Killis, who commanded at the siege of Seyde, has been ordered to Damascus; and upon his departure the troops were disbanded. This event will undoubtedly force the city of Jaffa to capitulate.

Among the great Number of Epitaphs proposed for the beautiful Monument lately erected in Westminster-Abbey, to the Memory of General Wolfe, the following is the shortest, and many think, the best that has been published.

EPITAPH on GENERAL WOLFE.

THIS Stone is plac'd to guard the sacred Dust
Of WOLFE, the Great, the Valiant and the Just;
Not with vain Titles to secure his Fame,
Boast his Exploits, or to preserve his Name;
Quebec his Name preserves, Quebec can tell,
How brave he fought, how crown'd with Glory fell.

ANECDOTE.

IN the reign of Henry the third, Simon De Montford, Earl of Leicester, suppressed a rebellion in Guienne; but the Gascoyns accused him of several misdemeanors, and the Earl came over to England to be tried by his peers. Upon his trial the King called him a traitor; but the Earl told him "he lied, and were he not a King he would make him eat his words!"---Perhaps this is the only instance of a subject giving his Sovereign the lie to his face; yet the King became reconciled to the Earl, and sent him Governor again to Guienne.
